Although the most modern web browser features PDF readers in the bullet, there is still a fair share of good reasons because the stand prefers the utility offered by PDF readers and the overall superior coverage. To begin with, dedicated PDF readers do far more than just open PDFs. They also provide their users with the possibility of merged PDFs, converting them to other formats, extracting pictures, adding comments and explanations, and even performing basic text editing. All this, without counting, can be their main advantage – the fact that most of them offer a much wider selection of viewing methods. And, users who are in the travel habit also prefer more versatile solutions offered by readers of portable PDF, which you have to install them already without having access to all of their features.
